PUMPKIN SHOW MAY GET RECOGNITION

Stringent Restrictions Laid Down By Justice Department On Aliens

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Attorney General Tom Clark today approved the most stringent restrictions on the movements of visiting aliens ever to be invoked in the United States in peacetime.

The amendments to the immigration regulations, which also would apply to such aliens already in this country, are expected to become effective within about two months.

They are described by the Justice department as "designed to keep a closer control over the entry of alien visitors and over their activities while in this country."

They provide that:

1. Aliens must register by mail with the commissioner of immigration and naturalization every three months, giving current addresses.

2. THE PERIOD covered by a visitor's permit is cut from one year to six months if the alien remains in one immigration district; to three months if he visits more than one immigration district.

3. Sixteen local immigration districts are to be created with each office responsible for investigating and "overseeing" aliens in the district. The offices would exchange information on the movements of aliens.

4. Aliens must agree before entry not to pursue any activity "not specifically authorized by immigration officials" and, if travelling on business, must prove that the business is "reasonable and legitimate and temporary in nature."

They also provide that an alien must apply for extension of his visitor's permit about 30 days before its expiration. The local offices are authorized to handle such applications.

If granted, extensions would be good only for the three months or six months period covered by the original permit. Only an emergency, under the new rules, would justify extension of a permit for a visit of 29 days or less.

THE JUSTICE department listed conditions for admission to the United States of a visiting alien as these:

1. He must establish that he wants admission as a tourist or temporarily for business or pleasure. His business must be reasonable and legitimate and temporary in nature.

2. He must agree that he will not pursue any purpose not specifically authorized by immigration officials.

3. He must agree to leave the United States upon expiration of his permit.

4. He must establish that he is not subject to exclusion under any of the immigration laws.

5. He must post not less than $500 bond as a guarantee of his departure.

Reds Lash British Base Lease

AAF In Tripoli Brings Criticism

LONDON, Jan. 16—A Soviet spokesman in London bluntly accused Britain today of violating the terms of the Big Four agreement concerning disposition of Italian colonies by agreeing to grant the United States air base rights in Tripoli.

His statement supported a long-suspected fear that the Russians have intended to ask a share in Italy's African colonies in order to secure a Mediterranean base for themselves.

The British foreign office expressed surprise at the Russian attitude.

A spokesman said that the British are in possession of Tripoli because the British conquered it. He added that the British will continue to administer Tripoli until such time as its future is decided either by the Big Four council of foreign ministers, or by the United Nations.

THE SPOKESMAN said that Moscow did not regard Britain's "unilateral" action in permitting the U. S. to reopen the air base at Mellaha, near Tripoli, Libya, as legal.

He explained his stand by saying that in the first place the Big Four agreed to take no action until a year after the Italian peace treaty was signed.

Secondly, he said that the United Nations commission at present is in North Africa study-

ONE MAN'S OPINION

General Eisenhower is getting the "Poor Richard" medal in Philadelphia for achievement. If he also gets the nomination in Philadelphia he is entitled to a "Poor Ike" medal.

But the fact that Ike is being entered in the race in two states now puts him even with Landon already.

For the kiddies who do not remember Landon, he was the nominee who carried parts of New England and a banjo.

His campaign song was, "Oh, Susannah, Don't You Cry For Me." The morning after election he said, "OK, Susy; you can start now."

But one thing you'll have to say for the man, after he took his shots for presidential fever he never came down with it again.

Ike doesn't have a campaign song yet. "The Embattled Hymn of the Republicans" has been suggested.

Intense Cold Is Blamed For Loss Of 6 Ohio Lives

By International News Service
The cold wave in Ohio was strengthened today by another spurt of frigid air from the northwest.

The first intense cold of the season was blamed for two fires which took a toll of six lives in Ohio.

A kerosene stove explosion in a Bellefontaine home claimed the lives of Mrs. Raymond Pickering, 22, and her two children, Rose Eva, 10-months old, and Jimmy, 2.

Three young brothers died of burns from a fire which swept their home at East Rochester, near Canton. The victims were Thomas, four months old; Earl Eugene, 3, and Theodore, 2, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taylor.

AFTER temperatures climbed to near the freezing mark early this morning, northwesterly winds began picking up speed to send the mercury into another downward spin.

The new blast of cold air tightened the squeeze on gas supplies throughout the state.

Treasury Chieftain Says GOP Tax Cut To Cost $2 Billion

Snyder Hints Of Another Veto If Congress OKs Knutson Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder told Congress today that the GOP-sponsored tax reduction bill would result in a budget deficit of more than $2 billion in the 1949 fiscal year and hinted that President Truman would veto the measure.

Snyder also announced the administration's opposition at this time to a nationwide extension of the community property tax purposes and renewal of President Truman's request for a "cost-of-living" tax reduction of $40 for every taxpayer and each of his dependents.

The secretary, appearing before the tax-drafting house ways and means committee, said the President's proposed tax cut would be offset by partial restoration of the wartime excess profits tax.

He advised the committee that the Republican measure sponsored by Rep. Knutson of Minn., its chairman, would slash government revenue by six billion 305 million dollars annually.

REPUBLICAN tax experts in Congress had estimated the reduction at approximately five billion 600 million dollars. Snyder maintained that the cut in individual income taxes alone would amount to six billion 200 million dollars a year.

Snyder declared: "It is unbelievable that any tax proposal would be seriously promoted that would produce a budget deficit and an increase in the public debt of two billion one hundred million dollars in the fiscal year of 1949."

The cabinet official added with emphasis that the Republican bill "is neither in the interest of sound fiscal management of the government nor in the public interest." He stated:

"The cold facts are that present economic conditions, budget-

Taft Talk May Bring GOP Split

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—The possibility of a Taft-Vandenberg split on the Marshall Plan jumped today with the Ohio presidential candidate's open criticism of Secretary of State George Marshall and his demand for a fat cut in foreign aid.

Sen. Taft called for a reduction of at least $1 billion in U. S. spending for Western Europe and the occupied zones in Fiscal 1949.

But there was some belief on Capitol Hill that Taft was talking in terms of a two billion 600 million dollar slash in the assistance plan.

Taft's first specific statement on proposed cuts, given at Providence, R. I., was interpreted by some observers as a suggested reduction of what amounted to 34 percent in the seven billion 600 million dollars asked for the first 15 months of the overall Marshall program.

THE GOP policy leader suggested a "total of Marshall Plan expenditures" of $5 billion for (Continued on Page Two)

Thar's Salty 'Gold' Awaiting Ohio Prospectors

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16—Thar's "paydirt" awaiting prospectors in northeastern and eastern Ohio.

"Taint gold pardner, and you better be well-heeled to start with. 'Cause it takes a lot of money to make money out of the kind of paydirt it is."

Commercially valuable salt beds lie under 24 northeastern and eastern Ohio counties, the Ohio Journal of Science reported today. And salt is of great and increasing worth as a basic raw material for the chemical industry.

James E. Pepper, of the U. S. geological survey, New Philadelphia, reports in the journal that his survey was based on records of 3,555 oil and gas wells drilled in east central Ohio.

The study established the western border of the salt-bed area as running in a southeasterly direction from Lake Erie through Lorain, Ashland, Medina, Wayne, Holmes, Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Noble and Washington Counties.

East of that line lies the salt, in some instances more than 300 feet thick.

Other counties in the region include Cuyahoga, Summit, Stark, Harrison, Belmont, Monroe, Lake, Geauga, Carroll, Ashland, Portage, Trumbull, Mahoning, Columbiana and Jefferson.

Because the salt is so far under ground, the normal method of getting it is to pump fresh

'TAG DAY' SCHEDULED

March Of Dimes Drive Moves Into Second Day

The $10,000 March of Dimes campaign entered its second day of operation in Pickaway County Friday.

In addition to the house-to-house canvassing, club, business and industrial solicitations, the campaign committee has set Saturday as "tag day."

Tags will be sold on the streets of Circleville by numerous local youngsters. The tags are celluloid squares with the national Infantine Paralysis symbol on them, and may be worn by the purchaser to show he has participated in the drive. No definite price has been set on the tags. Each person approached will be asked to give as much as he can.

"TAG DAY" is sponsored by the Cootiette club of the Veterans of Foreign wars, and the youths who sell the tags will be given free dinners for their help. The youngster who takes in the most money will be given a special prize by the club.

Next Thursday, the American Legion will play a basketball game on the floor of the Roll-n-Bowl against the powerful Greenfield Independents, and all the money taken in at the game will be turned over to the March of Dimes.

The tilt promises to be an excellent one. Three of the visiting team top the six-foot mark. Among them are Bobbie Davis, Tom Daniels and Herman Newell.

Circleville's team will be represented by former high school sharpshooters such as Leon Sims, John Jenkins, Don Valentine, Nelson Bell and Bill Weller.

Soviets Arrest Yank Officers

VIENNA, Jan. 16—Armed Russian soldiers were revealed today to have arrested two high-ranking American officers attached to the U. S. legation in Budapest.

The Americans—Col. Peter Kopsak, assistant military attache, and Lieut. Col. Bernard Thielens—were seized by the Soviet troops on Wednesday at Papa, Hungary.

Detained for several hours, the U. S. officers then were transported to Vienna where they were released without explanation the following morning.

The Americans were travelling in Hungary on normal duty in their own car. They carried Hungarian foreign office diplomatic passes authorizing freedom of travel.

Several Red army soldiers carried out the arrest, but would give no reason for their action, though it was said every one passing through the town of Papa must identify himself.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 16—The killing of a fourth missionary in Central China during the past week was reported to Shanghai tonight.

The latest victim was Miss E. E. Linell, an elderly Swedish woman attached to the Swedish mission in China.

The first report received by the China Inland Mission office in Shanghai said the woman was slain by "bandits" at Juicheng in Shansi province Wednesday. A second report described the "bandits" as "Communists."

Earlier in the week, three missionaries, including two American women, were reported killed by "bandits" northwest of Hankow.

Oct. 20-23 Dates Set For Carnival

Circleville's nationally-famous Pumpkin Show, which will be held this year Oct. 20 thru 23, may soon be recognized by the Ohio state department of agriculture as an independent fair.

Robert Colville, treasurer of the show committee announced Friday that he, T. D. Harmon, secretary-treasurer of Pickaway County agriculture society, and Ned Dresbach, a committee member, returned from the annual banquet of Ohio Fair managers Thursday night in Columbus with high hopes of receiving the high state rating.

The committee treasurer said he had conferred with Robert Jones and Lottie Randolph, assistant directors in the department of agriculture, who said they felt sure the Pumpkin Show would be recognized.

However, Jones said the final word would come after a meeting of officials in the agriculture department. No definite date for the conference was announced.

THE LOCAL committee official revealed this was the fourth time he had approached agriculture department heads on the matter of having the show recognized as an independent fair.

"In view of the amount of revenue we pay into the state agriculture fair funds, I think we will be given serious consideration," Colville stated.

Throughout the state there are about five independent fairs and 92 recognized fairs, Colville said.

The recognized fairs draw money from special county funds and state appropriations, he pointed out. The state appropriates about $44,000 per year to aid recognized fairs which means about $500 per county, Colville said.

Holding a fair is no simple matter, the official emphasized. Records of entries and amount of premiums paid on entries must be filed with the department of agriculture, in addition to arranging for publicity, concessions, rides and obtaining carloads of pumpkins.

In preparation for Circleville's 42nd annual Pumpkin Show, Colville said the three local men attended the banquet to begin preliminary arrangements. Over 1,100 fair managers, concessionaires, ride operators, show people and booking agents were present.

Snyder Hints Of Another Veto If Congress OKs Knutson Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder told Congress today that the GOP-sponsored tax reduction bill would result in a budget deficit of more than $2 billion in the 1949 fiscal year and hinted that President Truman would veto the measure.

Snyder also announced the administration's opposition at this time to a nationwide extension of the community property tax purposes and renewal of President Truman's request for a 20-cent living tax reduction of $40 for every taxpayer and each of his dependents.

The secretary, appearing before the tax-drafting house ways and means committee, said the President's proposed tax cut would be offset by partial restoration of the wartime excess profits tax.

He advised the committee that the Republican measure sponsored by Rep. Knutson of Minn., its chairman, would slash government revenue by six billion 305 million dollars annually.

Taft Talk May Bring GOP Split

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—The possibility of a Taft-Vandenberg split on the Marshall Plan jumped today with the Ohio presidential candidate's open criticism of Secretary of State George Marshall and his demand for a fat cut in foreign aid.

Thar's Salty 'Gold' Awaiting Ohio Prospectors

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16—Thar's "paydirt" awaiting prospectors in northeastern and eastern Ohio.

"Taint gold pardner, and you better be well-heeled to start with. 'Cause it takes a lot of money to make money out of the kind of paydirt it is."

Commercially valuable salt beds lie under 24 northeastern and eastern Ohio counties, the Ohio Journal of Science reported today. And salt is of great and increasing worth as a basic raw material for the chemical industry.

James E. Pepper, of the U. S. geological survey, New Philadelphia, reports in the journal that his survey was based on records of 3,555 oil and gas wells drilled in east central Ohio.

The study established the western border of the salt-bed area as running in a southeasterly direction from Lake Erie through Lorain, Ashland, Medina, Wayne, Holmes, Tuscarrawas, Guernsey, Noble and Washington Counties.

East of that line lies the salt, in some instances more than 300 feet thick.

Other counties in the region include Cuyahoga, Summit, Stark, Harrison, Belmont, Monroe, Lake, Geauga, Carroll, Ashtabula, Portage, Trumbull, Mahoning, Columbiana and Jefferson.

Because the salt is so far under ground, the normal method of getting it is to pump fresh water into wells drilled into the salt beds and repumping the brine to the surface for processing.

The shallowest salt bed is in Sheffield and Avon Townships in Lorain County, where the salt lies a mere 1,275 to 1,350 feet down.

From there the salt dips deeper into Mother Earth at a rate of about 30 feet a mile, and in Harrison County it is 4,767 feet down.

Taft Talk May Bring GOP Split

The 16 Western European countries and occupied Germany. Taft said that not more than three billions 800 million of this would be spent in the coming fiscal year and that this "is the basis for a $1 billion saving."

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee now conducting hearings on the Marshall Plan, had "no comment" on Taft's speech.

Marshall meanwhile reiterated his firm stand for the European program in a Pittsburgh speech.

Marshall said the program will mean higher taxes and continued scarcities for Americans but consequences of its rejection will make these sacrifices appear "trivial." He blamed Russia's "obstructive" actions for necessity of the plan.

The threat of a Taft-Vandenberg division when the aid plan reaches its peak on the senate floor was further heightened by Taft's slap at Marshall and the State department.

TAFT SAID Marshall's position was "utterly indefensible"—an apparent reference to the secretary's testimony that an "adequate" aid program or "none at all" be approved by Congress. Taft charged that the amount "demanded by the secretary of state" was supported "by a propaganda carefully organized out of the State department."

Vandenberg, it was reliably reported, regards such criticism of Marshall as based upon a misinterpretation of what the secretary said.

Intense Cold Is Blamed For Loss Of 6 Ohio Lives

19 at Mansfield and from 25 to 20 at Columbus.

Snow flurries, mostly along Lake Erie, were included in weather predictions for tonight and tomorrow.

A THREAT of snow yesterday failed to materialize except in the extreme northeastern part of Ohio. Perry this morning had a depth of four inches. The cold maintained a tight hold on midwestern and eastern states today. It was 25 degrees below zero at Bemidji, Minn., this morning; 22 below at International Falls, and 21 below at Duluth.

Lowest temperature in Ohio was 11 above at Toledo and Findlay, compared with three below readings over the state yesterday morning.

"We can't see an end to the cold for several days," one weather expert said. "There's just a little too much frigid air breaking loose from the Polar regions and heading in this direction to be optimistic about a change to mild weather."

The East Ohio Gas Company said it was continuing its 50 percent curtailment of gas to approximately 600 plants in the Cleveland, Akron, Warren, Youngstown, Niles and Canton areas. The Ohio Fuel Gas Company was maintaining a 100 percent ban in the area it serves.

any considerations, inflationary pressures, and debt management problems require the maintenance of government revenues at present level."

Snyder was the first witness to testify at the opening of public hearings on the Knutson bill, whose enactment house Republican leaders have set for this month.

HE WARNED the committee that "under present conditions, it is my firm conviction that a tax reduction of the magnitude involved in H. R. 4790 (the Knutson bill) would constitute a major threat to the nation's financial integrity and economic stability."

In pushing Mr. Truman's proposed $40 tax cut, Snyder asserted that the high cost of living has brought "real hardship" to many low-income families. On the other hand, he declared, "many corporations now realize profits greatly in excess of those ever realized in a stabilized peacetime economy."

The cabinet officer said the profits tax would apply to 22,000 corporations "with the largest excess profits" out of a total 360,000 taxable corporations.

In explanation of the administration's proposal, Snyder stated:

"The small corporations should be exempted by providing a specific exemption of $50,000 of excess profits for all corporations. The rate should be reduced from the 35.5 percent in effect for 1945 to 75 percent and the standards for normal profits (both the average earnings and invested capital credits) should be raised by 35 percent."

Snyder said the community property provision, a part of the Knutson bill, would result in a revenue loss of $803 million dollars, benefiting individuals with net incomes in excess of $5,000.

He said the proposal to permit all wives and husbands to split their incomes for tax purposes should be given "high priority" but maintained now is not the time for it.

The community property provision is widely supported in Congress. Exemptions also are increased $100 and additional benefits included for the aged and the blind.

p. m. on the Roll-n-Bowl court following a preliminary game which will start at 7.

PICKAWAY COUNTY'S schools will participate in the drive, too, and plans are being considered to have an East-West all-star game with all the county stars playing. Gate receipts also would go to the drive fund.

In addition to the game, county schools will donate as much as possible by filling out "dime cards" sent them by the campaign committee. Each card has five slots in which dimes are to be inserted.

Circleville high school will receive the "dime cards", too, and two girls' clubs, the Junior and Senior SOS will aid the campaign by addressing a and sending out circulars to Pickaway counties.

Committee Chairman Don Henkle says that the results of the drive would be registered each day on a large thermometer, placed at the southwest corner of Court and Main streets on the G. C. Murphy company store.

Continuing, the spokesman said:

"Russia was not even consulted by Britain before this high-handed action."

Then the Russian spokesman asked:

"Why do the Americans want an air base in Tripoli? Why are they seeking bases throughout the world?"

"Whom are they threatening?"

THE SOVIET spokesman then insisted that Russia demands her right to have a voice in the disposition of Italy's colonies.

Although the spokesman declined to specify what diplomatic steps the Soviets are contemplating in protest to the air base arrangement, he hinted strongly that his remarks constituted only the opening gun in a campaign to force Britain to cancel her air base lease.

Taft Talk May Bring GOP Split

the 16 Western European countries and occupied Germany. Taft said that not more than three billions 800 million of this would be spent in the coming fiscal year and that this "is the basis for a $1 billion saving."

Sen. Vandenberg (R) Mich., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee now conducting hearings on the Marshall Plan, had "no comment" on Taft's speech.

Marshall meanwhile reiterated his firm stand for the European program in a Pittsburgh speech.

Marshall said the program will mean higher taxes and continued scarcities for Americans but consequences of its rejection will make these sacrifices appear "trivial." He blamed Russia's "obstructive" actions for necessity of the plan.

The threat of a Taft-Vandenberg division when the aid plan reaches its peak on the senate floor was further heightened by Taft's slap at Marshall and the State department.

TAFT SAID Marshall's position was "utterly indefensible"—an apparent reference to the secretary's testimony that an "adequate" aid program or "none at all" be approved by Congress. Taft charged that the amount "demanded by the secretary of state" was supported "by a propaganda carefully organized out of the State department."

Vandenberg, it was reliably reported, regards such criticism of Marshall as based upon a misinterpretation of what the secretary said.

All-Time Record Is Established By Probate Court On Estates

An all-time record was established during 1947 in Pickaway County probate court when 214 records on estates were closed. This represented an increase of 23 over the previous year. Harry Grove, court clerk announced.

Grove's annual records showed 20 less applicants for marriage licenses last year than in 1946. Last year 183 licenses were issued compared to 203 the previous year.

Other statistics recorded for 1947 showed five estates released from guardianship; 10 guardians were appointed for 13 minors; 16 incompetents were placed under guardianship; six trustees appointed; nine adoptions registered; six birth records were corrected; 16 birth registrations were delayed.

ALSO INCLUDED in the records were: 58 wills probated in court; eight authenticated copies of wills admitted; 57 letters testamentary and 60 letters of administration admitted; 16 estates released from administration; a total of 19 sent to hospitals for the insane and feeble minded; one boy sent to Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster and one sent to Mansfield reformatory.

Two girls were sent to the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware and two youths admitted to the Bureau of Juvenile Research.

Gas Company Stresses Safety

Drivers of trucks and passenger cars of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. cannot forget "safety" these wintry days. Everywhere around them are reminders.

As one phase of a "No Auto-Accident" campaign in January, the interiors of all company vehicles have been decorated with safety messages. It was reported today by Dan McClain, local manager. The words are printed in black on yellow strips of tape.

A big slogan across the top of the dashboard reads: "No Accidents When I'm Driving".

Taped on top of the rear view mirror is: "Use hand signals". On the horn button is: "Don't substitute the horn for safe driving", and on the speedometer the tape reads: "How fast is safe?"

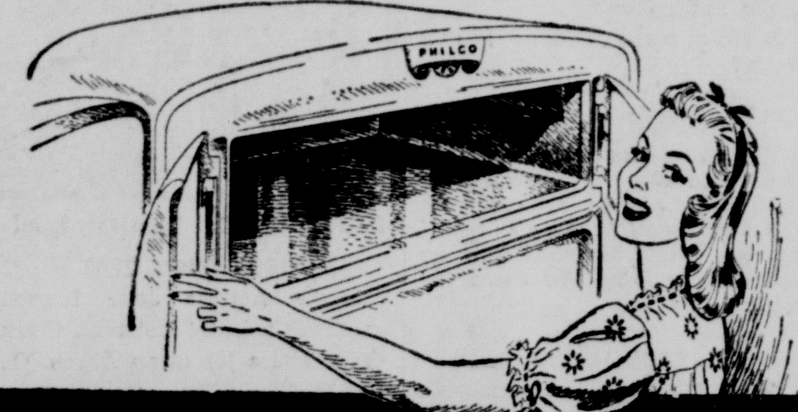

"LOOK BEFORE YOU STEP" is the message on the left door frame.

On the back of each truck is a sign: "This vehicle is in a safety contest. Please help."

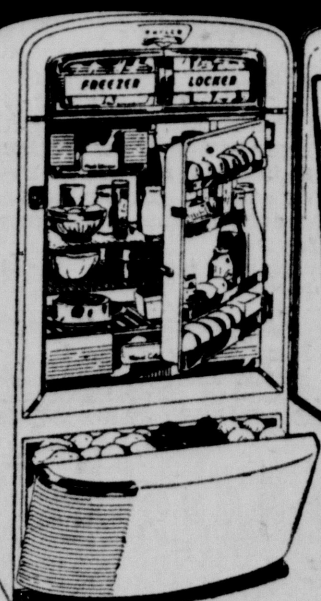

The special campaign against auto accidents is being conducted this month when driving conditions frequently are treacherous and the rate of accidents normally is high.

TRY A WARNER KIDNEY FLUSH

For These Distresses
Clogging of the kidney blood-filtering tubes (of which there are about 15 million, or 3 million in the system) frequently causes backache, excessive getting up at night; too scanty, too frequent, or burning bladder elimination; nervousness; loss of appetite; rheumatic-like pains; swelling of ankles; puffiness; sleeplessness; headaches; dizziness; lowered vitality.

MILLIONS SINCE 1875

Have experienced the GLORIOUS EASING and relief from these distresses (when due to clogging of these blood-filtering tubes) which followed the use of WARNER'S COMPOUND, now in tablets. They help to flush the kidneys, and may make you feel like a NEW PERSON in just 10 to 12 days. POSITIVELY NOTHING BETTER AT ANY PRICE! "They're economical because you take only two tablets per meal with 40 tablets costing you only 75c at your druggist or we will send you 60 tablets postpaid for $1 together with helpful information, "What you should know about your kidneys."

Since the Panamanians gave us the thumbs-down treatment on our request for military bases and we caught them entirely off base by pulling our forces out of the country, there's much chatter of a new sea-level canal through Nicaragua. The idea is as logical as handles on a loving cup and the Nicaraguan Government is as pleased as a kid in a mud puddle. Another canal would be extra insurance... especially since we've outgrown the big ditch in Panama. Right now we have several ships too big to manage the canal... and many others have to be eased through like an elephant navigating a turnstile. It's better to be digging in now... than digging out later.

All-Time Record Is Established By Probate Court On Estates

An all-time record was established during 1947 in Pickaway County probate court when 214 records on estates were closed. This represented an increase of 23 over the previous year, Harry Grove, court clerk announced.

Grove's annual records showed 20 less applicants for marriage licenses last year than in 1946. Last year 183 licenses were issued compared to 203 the previous year.

Other statistics recorded for 1947 showed five estates released from guardianship; 10 guardians were appointed for 13 minors; 16 incompetents were placed under guardianship; six trustees appointed; nine adoptions registered; six birth records were corrected; 16 birth registrations were delayed.

ALSO INCLUDED in the records were: 58 wills probated in court; eight authenticated copies of wills admitted; 57 letters testamentary and 60 letters of administration admitted; 16 estates released from administration; a total of 19 sent to hospitals for the insane and feeble minded; one boy sent to Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster and one sent to Mansfield reformatory.

Two girls were sent to the Girls' Industrial school at Delaware and two youths admitted to the Bureau of Juvenile Research.

Ashville

Ashville high school girls' volleyball team won from Jackson township on the loser's floor Wednesday, 43-31.

At the reorganization meeting of the Ashville Banking Co. Wednesday the following officers were elected: W. E. Hall, president; J. L. Spindler, vice-president; and J. M. Borror, president of directors. Other directors are Ira Fisher, L. E. Foreman, W. E. Hall, J. R. Hedges, J. L. Spindler, and Paul W. Teegardin. C. D. Kraft is cashier, Valerie C. White, assistant cashier, and Cleona D. McKinnon and Rebecca Skinner are tellers.

At the regular meeting of Palmetto Lodge Wednesday, officers for the term were installed by C. D. Kraft, Edwin Irwin, and Frank G. Hudson. The newly installed officers include: C. C. Charles Trone Jr.; V. C. Rolland Featheringham; prelate, Harry Hedges; secretary, Guy Cline; financial secretary, Harry Sark; master of work, Kraft; master-at-arms, Luther Smith; treasurer, E. W. Seeds; inner guard, Dale Schiff; outer guard, Art Deal Jr.; trustees, J. R. Hoover, E. E. Borror, F. G. Hudson; lodge deputy, Edwin Irwin. F. G. Hudson of the local lodge was recently appointed county deputy, a position formerly held by Kraft. Following the business meeting, an oyster supper was enjoyed by the members present.

Miss Josephine Doyle, local commercial teacher, was absent from school Thursday because of illness. Mrs. Helen Hedges taught in her place. Mrs. Phyllis Sonnen, who was ill the early part of this week, was able to return to her classes Thursday.

Tickets are on sale for the annual Lutheran Brotherhood banquet to be held Wednesday at Lockbourne. Dr. H. L. Yochum, president of Capital University, has been secured as speaker. E. F. Martin is in charge of the ticket sale in Ashville.

Mrs. George Kuhlwein is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown and family.

Mrs. C. W. Squire, New York City, expects to visit Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cromley over the weekend.

2 Beer Taverns Facing Probe

Cases against two Circleville beer permit holders, charged with selling intoxicants to minors, have been taken under advisement by the state liquor board.

The two establishments are: the White Swan Cafe, West Main street, charged with selling "high-power beer" to a 19-year-old lad; and Hoffman's carry-out store, Maplewood avenue, charged with selling beer to a 17-year-old boy for consumption on the premises.

IMPROVING CONGRESS

The National Committee for the Strengthening of Congress is at it again. This organization, headed by Robert Heller, supplied much of the pressure that put over the La Follette-McCormack reorganization bill two years ago. Now they want Congress to go further. Congress should improve its control of the government's finances, and check more carefully on requests of the executive department. It should get more help for its standing committees, not by putting congressmen's sons and daughters on the payroll, but by hiring trained people who know government and economics.

There is one glaring omission. Nothing is said about abolishing or modifying the vicious seniority rule, which makes a man chairman of an important committee merely because he has a hold on his home district and gets re-elected longer than his fellow-members. This system made Congressman Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, since convicted for bribery, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee during World War II.

Each committee should elect its own chairman, and thereby enhance its chance of getting an able man. But this change is too drastic, perhaps, for Congress to adopt without more pressure from the home folks. That was probably why the Heller committee dropped this recommendation out.

NEW ANNEXATIONS

South Africa has annexed its first overseas territory. Adjacent German South-West Africa was taken over after World War I, but now the South African Union has gone further afield, and raised its flag over the Prince Edward Islands in the South Indian Ocean. They are hundreds of miles away from any place else, being as lonely as Kerguelen, the most famous island in this region, whose other name is Desolation Island. Why does South Africa want them?

Apparently as an air base. As there is no South African aviation to amount to anything, the islands must be meant for British use. The Australians have just occupied even more remote Heard Island on the edge of the Antarctic, evidently for the same reason.

The plane is bringing into reach of civilization places that otherwise would have gone neglected to the end of time.

Of the people who say, "Oh, I like a white Christmas", including the whole Christmas holiday period, how many are there whose work compels them to drive?

The main trouble with Communists seems to be that they don't get around and see how other people live.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Obviously, Harry Truman has no conception of a billion dollars. It is just a big number. Big numbers are to him preferable to little numbers. Before Truman, it was assumed that Franklin D. Roosevelt was the biggest spender this country had ever known, but compared with Harry Truman, Roosevelt's spending, except in wartime, was moderate.

Let's look at the figures. Roosevelt's spending from 1933 to 1940 ran thus: 1933, $4,325,150,000; 1934, 6,370,947,000; 1935, 7,583,434,000; 1936, 9,068,886,000; 1937, 8,281,380,000; 1938, 7,304,287,000; 1939, 8,765,338,000; 1940, 9,127,374,000.

Then came war expenditures, which reached an all-time high of $100,000,000,000 in 1945. Wars cost lives and money without stint, for defeat means slavery. So we can skip those war years.

Truman has presented his country with four years of expenditures: 1946, $63,714,000,000; 1947, 42,505,000,000; 1948, 37,728,000,000; 1949, 39,669,000,000.

In a word, Truman's peacetime budget runs between three and four times more than Roosevelt's highest peacetime expenditure.

It is true that Truman has to carry the load of the continuing costs of war, interest on the public debt of $256,000,000,000, cost of veterans, and the cost of keeping an army in all parts of the world. Also Truman inherits all the costs of Teheran and Yalta, which means this cold war that Russia is waging against us. But items are hidden in his budget which are unrelated to these costs and which are put in to make the budget high.

Apparently, Truman believes that high government expenditures prevent inflation. He said so. But there is no statistical or clinical evidence that that is true. Inflation inflates worse when the government spends public funds to purchase goods than when competition drives prices down. As a matter of fact, the current high prices are due to government buying, government subsidies, and excessive government exports abroad.

The fixed charges out of the last war are veterans services and benefits amounting to $6,322,000,000. The interest on the public debt amounts to $5,200,000,000. This $11,522,000,000 is the foundation of all our troubles and ought to give the citizens considerable food for thought. This $11,522,000,000 is more than the total 1940 budget of $2,500,000,000.

In 1940, the national defense cost $1,500,000,000. Then came the war when expenditures naturally rose. For 1948, Truman proposes that the armed forces receive $10,700,000,000; for 1949, $11,025,000,000.

The cost of government is making each individual American poorer every year. The cost of government is working a revolution in American life. It must be cut drastically if we are not to be conquered by our expenditures—a worse conqueror even than war.

After all, the most important question today is not what shall we do about Russia, but what shall we give Aunt Fanny for Christmas.

The banner story of the holiday aftermath is about the man who tried to exchange his Christmas necktie for a bottle of whisky.

"Your husband is so kindhearted—I heard him tell my husband he put his shirt on a horse that was scratched."

DIET AND HEALTH

A Useful Medical Instrument

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
ONE of the most useful instruments developed in recent years is the bronchoscope, a tube with lights, which may be passed through the windpipe to large tubes of the lungs so that the physician can look directly at these structures.

One would imagine that such an examination might be a terrifying ordeal but this isn't true at all. Though such an examination requires about half an hour, the patient can breathe normally while it is in progress. He neither coughs nor experiences any other discomfort.

Especially Useful
The bronchoscope is especially useful when the more ordinary means of diagnosis, such as X-ray pictures and physical examination, fail to reveal the true nature of a disorder of the lungs. Its use is always desirable when there has been bleeding from the lungs, as bleeding may be the first and only sign of tuberculosis or cancer, and a bronchoscopic examination enables the doctor to tell immediately which disease is responsible.

Wheezing is another symptom, the cause of which may sometimes be determined by bronchoscopic examination. Sometimes wheezing is the only sign of cancer of the lung. May Be Blocked
Now and then one of the bronchi may be blocked by secretions or a tumor growth. That part of the lung in which the obstruction occurs may collapse. This condition is called atelectasis. This bronchial obstruction with atelectasis may be mistaken for other conditions, such as unresolved pneumonia, a disorder which follows pneumonia.

Examination with the bronchoscope is carried out to reveal the true condition.

Following operations, such symptoms as coughing, shortness of breath, and a fever may develop. Such a condition might be due to pneumonia, but it might also be caused by bronchial obstruction. In these cases, sucking out the secretions from the blocked bronchus may be life-saving. Hence, a bronchoscopic examination is of the utmost importance. It is also useful in cases of lung abscess, in which material is recovered from the abscess, for the purpose of examination to determine the kind of germs producing the trouble.

Of course, when some object is breathed into the lungs, it may be removed through the bronchoscope.

The Silver Leopard

by HELEN REILLY Copyright, 1946, by Helen Reilly, Distributed by King Features Syndicate

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
WHEN the little metal ring was found under Nye's chair, Pierson had said excitedly, "There was a broken silver chain in the Lister dame's purse. Dollars to doughnuts this came off of it. It must have broken when she gave him the chop..." McKee had been skeptical. His visit here was more a matter of routine than anything else. No weapon that was at all appropriate had been found in Nye's rooms and every possibility had to be exhausted.

There was no doubt now in McKee's mind that the object that had bludgeoned Michael Nye to death was the small heavy silver toy belonging to Catherine Lister. There was considerable doubt in him, and it remained there, obstinately, as to whether Catherine was the perpetrator.

The statuette had been wiped off. Probably water had been used. It didn't matter, there would still be traces of blood in the interstices of the carving and metal overlays that no hastily attempted cleansing could remove. The result was a foregone conclusion. The metal ring was an integral part of the statuette. It had been jarred loose with the force of the blow that had crashed in Michael Nye's skull.

His doubt as to Catherine's guilt was shaken by no other official. Some killers used guns, some a neat length of iron pipe, some their hands, etc. The unanimous opinion of the rest of the Department was that Catherine Lister had gone to the dead man's apartment armed with the handy little silver bludgeon tucked into her purse.

Before she had given the alarm, she had hidden the leopard somewhere. After her bag had been searched and she was given a green light, she retrieved the silver leopard from its hiding place and walked out of the place as innocent as you please, confident that her tale of a mysterious visitor who had turned off the lights had gone down whole.

It was entirely owing to McKee that Catherine wasn't arrested then and there, that night. Only his reputation, and the prestige and privileges he enjoyed as a man who on occasion had pulled off brilliant coups in the teeth of the evidence, kept the Black Maria from backing up to the alley immediately and carting Catherine off to the nearest precinct, where she would have been charged with murder and put behind bars. He had a hard time pulling it off.

In the background, not interfering, he had listened to the accused girl's toneless reiteration of the story she had first told him. "I didn't take the leopard to Michael's apartment. I didn't kill him with it. I didn't hide the leopard. I didn't put it in my bag when I left."

Soft dark hair in disarray, her eyes shadowed, faint color was coming back into her lips and cheeks. She was gathering strength instead of losing it. Pioretti, and Snider, the latter a man the Scotsman disliked, were antagonizing a witness. It was a tactical error. He drew them aside while their henchmen took over.

To Pioretti, he said, "Have a heart and give me a little time. I'm not ready to go to bat now. I haven't got half enough stuff."

"To what?" McKee asked. "You want a case that will stand up. We haven't got one yet. District Attorney Dwyer won't thank you for a premature arrest when he gets back to town." To them both, he said, "What's the hurry? If she's the one, we've got her. I have men on the house back and front. She can't get away. Call off your bloodhounds, gentlemen."

Finally, after much grumbling and argument, they agreed, and McKee and Catherine were alone. The handsome young Army Captain, white and incoherent with rage and dismay, had been ejected from the room and was keeping vigil, accompanied by Pierson, out on the stairs.

"Miss Lister..." The Scotsman was only another voice to Catherine. But he was a different voice. He gave her a cigarette, lit it for her and prowled the little room with the peaked ceiling, beamed and firelit, pausing to glance at this or that, to read the title of a book, and talking to himself as much as to her.

He didn't make a great deal of headway. Catherine answered his questions willingly enough, up to a point. She told him about the leopard, that it had been a Christmas gift from her uncle, John Wardwell, two years ago, and had been in her possession ever since.

"So that everyone who knew you would know where to find it?" Shoulders huddled together, McKee pressed stiffly together, Catherine looked into the dying fire. Everyone she knew... The person who had removed the leopard in order to get hold of a weapon with which to kill Mike—otherwise why should it have been taken?—had to know Mike too. There weren't many of her friends or acquaintances that condition fitted. They hammered themselves at her, that small close group, Nicky and Tom and Francine, Hat and Angela and Stephen Darrell. She searched for another name, couldn't find one, wrenched away from the conclusion. She spoke her thoughts aloud.

"Why," she said with slow violence, "was the leopard taken to kill Michael with, Inspector? To throw suspicion on me? If so, why was it returned here?"

McKee couldn't answer her. According to Mr. Findlater, the tenant in the apartment adjoining Nye's, no one had entered the dead painter's rooms from the moment the alarm was given until the arrival of the police. Check on that more closely, he thought. Meanwhile, one figure remained. It was that of the perpetrator. As things stood, it could only have been the man or woman who killed Nye who had replaced the leopard in this girl's apartment. It was a senseless procedure—unless the intention had been to shield her. In that case, why had the leopard been used as a club with which to batter out Michael Nye's brains in the first place?

Until they knew more about that, he decided, Catherine's violence echoing itself in him, they wouldn't know anything.

He eyed the silver toy where it stood on a table to the left of the hearth, the body crouched, belly sagging, head turned, blind gaze warily intent—and uninformative. "When did you last see the leopard in its accustomed place, Miss Lister?"

Catherine smoothed the sleeve of a creamy silk blouse with more color to it than her skin. "It's hard to say. You know how you take things in a room for granted without really looking at them? It was there this morning at a little before twelve, when I left here to go up to my aunt's."

"Five or ten minutes of twelve, that's the last time you can be positive about? You were here after that, weren't you? You were here this evening when Mr. Nye telephoned to you asking you to go up to his apartment?"

The only move Catherine made was to lower her lashes. McKee mustn't see the fear in her eyes. The little rocker out of place, the rug scuffed up. "Someone had been in this room during the afternoon. The door was locked and Nicky was the only one who had a key. Of course he hadn't taken the leopard. Before she said anything about a visitor while she was out, she wanted to hear him say so with her own ears."

"Yes, I was here later," she said. "I went for a long walk after lunch and didn't get back until nearly seven. I stopped for a cup of tea and a sandwich on the way in. I don't—I can't possibly say whether the leopard was gone then or not."

In spite of her effort at steadiness, McKee saw the fear in her. She wasn't to know until afterwards what a beacon the readability of her face was to the Scotsman, or how often he consulted it. She's afraid for that very good-looking young almanac she's engaged to, he thought grimly. Nicholas Bray had made a thing out of a favorable impression on him. The release of a bomber pilot was a rattled gentleman. Under his smooth blond and attractive exterior, something was worrying him badly. It might not be murder... Then again... He went to the door and opened it, and Nicky came bounding up the stairs and into the room.

He looked anxiously at Catherine, went to her, put a hand on her shoulder. "Are you all right? Did they...?" His handsome blue eyes transferred themselves to McKee. "You know she didn't kill Michael, don't you, Inspector? She's not going to be... You're not going to do anything to her?"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mel Heimer is writing his column from Miami where he is vacationing.

Jackie Miles

The place is, however, just about what I expected. The air is soft and warm, the citizens move more slowly and there is no question but that it is a wonderful resort in which to unwind your wire-tight city nerves.

Yet, there is an unreal, world-fair, tent-show atmosphere about Miami. In this respect it is comparable to southern California. The houses and hotels are pink and white and there are curio shops in behind every other door along the main streets, and along the waterfront there are barkers trying to entice you into sightseeing trips, aquatic style.

It seems to be an elaborate carnival, much razzle-dazzle and whoop-la. The subsequent result of this impression is that you tend to dismiss the place as a city or community and look upon it as a pitchman's paradise.

MY MORE SOCIAL-MINDED FRIENDS have told me that one goes only to Miami Beach when one goes to Florida for The Season. So naturally I am here at Miami instead. I have made a couple of trips over the causeway to Miami Beach, and somehow I wonder if I have been told right.

Miami, to be sure, is a hinky-dinky kind of place with a plaster-of-paris glory, but a great part of Miami Beach seems to have sprung from the left rib of Coney Island's boardwalk.

The beaches, public and private, are nowhere near as spotless and dazzling white as Long Island's Jones Beach or the long stretches of deserted sand on the Pacific near Santa Monica, and there is block upon block of unbelievably garish and rococo hotels.

I have been looking expectantly for the shell to call me over and ask me to try my luck swinging the hammer on the post that rings the bell (I always manage to reach the mark that says, not "Hercules" but "Dagwood") but no sign yet.

FROM WHAT I HAVE GATHERED, talking with bootblacks and doormen and street-cleaners, with whom I appear to somehow have more in common than the Palm Beach set, this is not so good a season. I came down here all of a hurry, without making advance hotel reservations, and on my arrival I phoned the Everglades, one of the bigger inns, for a room.

They quoted a $10 daily price and I said I'd take it. The reservations clerk then spoke up—wistfully, oh, so wistfully: "You wouldn't like a $12 room, would you?" he said, almost pleadingly. I found this same attitude everywhere; evidently the quick-turnover money from war days has disappeared and some of the profiteering souls find themselves with a pig in a poke.

Realtors are advertising hotels for sale—little ones, going for $50,000 or so, that we are assured are real money-makers—and the newspapers are full of ads offering rooms, apartments and homes for rent or sale. Things, quite apparently, have changed in one year.

This, as I have noted, is a place for unwinding, for cooling off, for slowing down. However, it is, of course, full of New Yorkers to whom the winter Florida trip is as mandatory as brushing one's teeth—and once again I have observed how virtually impossible it is for the Manhattanite to do this unwinding.

Many of them have been here for several months now, but their faces are still knotted in frowns, under the deep tans, and they still move quickly and noisily and with a great hullabaloo. They gamble intensely and are impatient with the slower-moving natives, and they talk stocks and merchandise and business incessantly.

The New Yorker resists change to the bitter end. He is carved in a strange and tight-set mold and nobody is going to do any tinkering with him.

IMPROVING CONGRESS

The National Committee for the Strengthening of Congress is at it again. This organization, headed by Robert Heller, supplied much of the pressure that put over the La Follette-Monroney reorganization bill two years ago. Now they want Congress to go further. Congress should improve its control of the governments' finances, and check more carefully on requests of the executive department. It should get more help for its standing committees, not by putting congressmen's sons and daughters on the payroll, but by hiring trained people who know government and economics.

There is one glaring omission. Nothing is said about abolishing or modifying the vicious seniority rule, which makes a man chairman of an important committee merely because he has a hold on his home district and gets re-elected longer than his fellow-members. This system made Congressman Andrew J. May, of Kentucky, since convicted for bribery a king, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee during World War II.

Each committee should elect its own chairman, and thereby enhance its chance of getting an able man. But this change is too drastic, perhaps, for Congress to adopt without more pressure from the home folks. That was probably why the Heller committee dropped this recommendation out.

NEW ANNEXATIONS

South Africa has annexed its first overseas territory. Adjacent German South-West Africa was taken over after World War I, but now the South African Union has gone further afield, and raised its flag over the Prince Edward Islands in the South Indian Ocean. They are hundreds of miles away from any place else, being as lonely as Kerguelen, the most famous island in this region, whose other name is Desolation Island. Why does South Africa want them?

Apparently as an air base. As there is no South African aviation to amount to anything, the islands must be meant for British use. The Australians have just occupied even more remote Heard Island on the edge of the Antarctic, evidently for the same reason.

The plane is bringing into reach of civilization places that otherwise would have gone neglected to the end of time.

Of the people who say, "Oh, I like a white Christmas", including the whole Christmas holiday period, how many are there whose work compels them to drive?

The main trouble with Communists seems to be that they don't get around and see how other people live.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Obviously, Harry Truman has no conception of a billion dollars. It is just a big number. Big numbers are to him preferable to little numbers. Before Truman, it was assumed that Franklin D. Roosevelt was the biggest spender this country had ever known, but compared with Harry Truman, Roosevelt's spending, except in wartime, was moderate.

Let's look at the figures. Roosevelt's spending from 1933 to 1940 ran thus: 1933, $4,325,150,000; 1934, 6,370,947,000; 1935, 7,583,434,000; 1936, 9,068,886,000; 1937, 8,281,380,000; 1938, 7,304,287,000; 1939, 8,765,338,000; 1940, 9,127,374,000.

Then came war expenditures, which reached an all-time high of $100,000,000 in 1945. Wars cost lives and money without stint, for defeat means slavery. So we can skip those war years.

Truman has presented his country with four years of expenditures: 1946, $63,714,000,000; 1947, 42,505,000,000; 1948, 37,728,000,000; 1949, 39,689,000,000.

In a word, Truman's peacetime budget runs between three and four times more than Roosevelt's highest peacetime expenditure.

It is true that Truman has to carry the load of the continuing costs of war, interest on the public debt of $256,000,000,000, cost of veterans, and the cost of keeping an army in all parts of the world. Also Truman inherits all the costs of Teheran and Yalta, which means this cold war that Russia is waging against us. But items are hidden in his budget which are unrelated to these costs and which are put in to make the budget high.

Apparently, Truman believes that high government expenditures prevent inflation. He said so. But there is no statistical or clinical evidence that that is true. Inflation inflates worse when the government spends public funds to purchase goods than when competition drives prices down. As a matter of fact, the current high prices are due to government buying, government subsidies, and excessive government exports abroad.

The fixed charges out of the last war are veterans services and benefits amounting to $6,632,000,000. The interest on the public debt amounts to $5,200,000,000. This $11,832,000,000 is the foundation of all our troubles and ought to give the citizens considerable food for thought. This $11,832,000,000 is more than the total 1940 budget by $2,500,000,000.

In 1940, the national defense cost $1,500,000,000. Then came the war when expenditures naturally rose. For 1948, Truman proposes that the armed forces receive $10,700,000,000; for 1949, $11,025,000,000.

The cost of government is making each individual American poorer every year. The cost of government is working a revolution in American life. It must be cut drastically if we are not to be conquered by our expenditures—a worse conqueror even than war.

After all, the most important question today is not what shall we do about Russia, but what shall we give Aunt Fanny for Christmas.

The banner story of the holiday aftermath is about the man who tried to exchange his Christmas necktie for a bottle of whisky.

DIET AND HEALTH

A Useful Medical Instrument

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ONE of the most useful instruments developed in recent years is the bronchoscope, a tube with lights, which may be passed through the windpipe to large tubes of the lungs so that the physician can look directly at these structures.

One would imagine that such an examination might be a terrifying ordeal but this isn't true at all. Though such an examination requires about half an hour, the patient can breathe normally while it is in process. He neither coughs nor experiences any other discomforts.

Especially Useful

The bronchoscope is especially useful when the more ordinary means of diagnosis, such as X-ray pictures and physical examination, fail to reveal the true nature of a disorder of the lungs. Its use is always desirable when there has been bleeding from the lungs, as bleeding may be the first and only sign of tuberculosis or cancer, and a bronchoscopic examination enables the doctor to tell immediately which disease is responsible.

Wheezing is another symptom, the cause of which may sometimes be determined by bronchoscopic examination. Sometimes wheezing is the only sign of cancer of the lung.

May Be Blocked

Now and then one of the bronchi may be blocked by secretions or a tumor growth. That part of the lung in which the obstruction occurs may collapse. This condition is called atelectasis. This bronchial obstruction with atelectasis may be mistaken for other conditions, such as unresolved pneumonia, a disorder which follows pneumonia. Examination with the bronchoscope is carried out to reveal the true condition.

Following operations, such symptoms as coughing, shortness of breath, and a fever may develop. Such a condition might be due to pneumonia, but it might also be caused by bronchial obstruction. In these cases, sucking out the secretions from the blocked bronchus may be life-saving. Hence, a bronchoscopic examination is of the utmost importance. It is also useful in cases of lung abscess, in which material is recovered from the abscess, for the purpose of examination to determine the kind of germs producing the trouble.

Of course, when some object is breathed into the lungs, it may be removed through the bronchoscope.

He eyed the silver toy where it stood on a table to the left of the hearth, the body crouched, belly sagging, head turned, blind gaze warily intent—and uninformative. When did you last see the leopard in its accustomed place, Miss Lister?

Catherine smoothed the sleeve of a creamy silk blouse with more color to it than her skin. "It—it's hard to say. You know how you take things in a room for granted without really looking at them? It was there this morning at a little before twelve, when I left here to go up to my aunt's."

"Five or ten minutes of twelve, that's the last time you can be positive about? You were here after that, weren't you? You were here this evening when Mr. Nye telephoned to you asking you to go up to his apartment?"

The only move Catherine made was to lower her lashes. McKee mustn't see the fear in her eyes. The little rocker out of place, the rug scuffed up . . . Someone had been in this room during the afternoon. The door was locked and Nicky was the only one who had a key. Of course he hadn't taken the leopard. Before she said anything about a visitor while she was out, she wanted to hear him say so with her own ears.

"Yes, I was here later," she said. "I went for a long walk after lunch and didn't get back until nearly seven. I stopped for a cup of tea and a sandwich on the way in. I don't—I can't possibly say whether the leopard was gone then or not."

In spite of her effort at steadiness, McKee saw the fear in her. She wasn't to know until afterwards what a beacon the readiness of her face was to the Scotsman, or how often he consulted it. She's afraid for that very good-looking young airman she's engaged to, he thought grimly. Nicholas Bray had made anything but a favorable impression on him. The released bomber pilot was a rattled gentleman. Under his smooth blond and attractive exterior, something was worrying him badly. It might be murder. . . . Then again . . . He went to the door and opened it, and Nicky came bounding up the stairs and into the room.

He looked anxiously at Catherine, went to her, put a hand on her shoulder. "Are you all right? Did they . . . ?" His handsome blue eyes transferred themselves to McKee. "You know she didn't kill Michael, don't you, Inspector? She's not going to be . . . You're not going to do anything to her?"

MODERN MANNERS

The most annoying habit of some card players, which should be avoided, is to snap a card down as played, bending a "trick" one has taken, or picking it up and moving it up and down the table.

YOUR FUTURE

Your birthday anniversary is a good day for mental work, writing or contacting others. The afternoon favors direct contacts, and the evening is excellent for intimate entertaining in your home. Your next year will be a mixture of good and not so good.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mel Heimer is writing his column from Miami where he is vacationing.

Jackie Miles

MIAMI, Fla.—It is shameful to admit, since I am a newspaperman and newspapermen are supposed to have been everywhere and done everything, from dancing with Josephine Baker to tiger-hunting with the Rajah of Mahjongg-pore, that this is the first time I ever have been in Miami. Alas, it is true. For authoritative information on this season down here, such as whether Jackie Miles' comedy is just as hilarious as it was last year or whether the Roney-Plaza is charging more or less for its glasses of water than it did in 1947, you will have to go to Walter Winchell or some other poor man's Heimer. I am, at the moment, a tourist. A confused, wet-behind-the-ears tourist who went snow blind in Manhattan and had to flee here for a couple of days to recover.

The place is, however, just about what I expected. The air is soft and warm, the citizens move more slowly and there is no question but that it is a wonderful resort in which to unwind your wire-tight city nerves.

Yet, there is an unreal, world-fair, tent-show atmosphere about Miami. In this respect it is comparable to southern California. The houses and hotels are pink and white and there are curio shops in behind every other door along the main streets, and along the waterfront there are barkers trying to entice you into sightseeing trips, aquatic style.

It seems to be an elaborate carnival, much razzle-dazzle and whoop-la. The subsequent result of this impression is that you tend to dismiss the place as a city or community and look upon it as a pitchman's paradise.

MY MORE SOCIAL-MINDED FRIENDS have told me that one goes only to Miami Beach when one goes to Florida for The Season, so naturally I am here at Miami instead. I have made a couple of trips over the causeway to Miami Beach, and somehow I wonder if I have been told right.

Miami, to be sure, is a hinky-dinky kind of place with a plaster-of-paris glory, but a great part of Miami Beach seems to have sprung from the left rib of Coney Island's boardwalk.

The beaches, public and private, are nowhere near as spotless and dazzling white as Long Island's Jones Beach or the long stretches of deserted sand on the Pacific near Santa Monica, and there is block upon block of unbelievably garish and roccoco hotels.

I have been looking expectantly for the shell to call me over and ask me to try my luck swinging the hammer on the post that rings the bell (I always manage to reach the mark that says, not "Hercules" but "Dagwood") but no sign yet.

FROM WHAT I HAVE GATHERED, talking with bootblacks and doormen and street-cleaners, with whom I appear to somehow have more in common than the Palm Beach set, this is not so good a season. I came down here all of a hurry, without making advance hotel reservations, and on my arrival I phoned the Everglades, one of the bigger inns, for a room.

They quoted a $10 daily price and I said I'd take it. The reservations clerk then spoke up—wistfully, oh, so wistfully: "You wouldn't like a $12 room, would you?" he said, almost pleadingly. I found this same attitude everywhere; evidently the quick-turnover money from war days has disappeared and some of the profiteering souls find themselves with a pig in a poke.

Realtors are advertising hotels for sale—little ones, going for $50,000 or so, that we are assured are real money-makers—and the newspapers are full of ads offering rooms, apartments and homes for rent or sale. Things, quite apparently, have changed in one year.

This, as I have noted, is a place for unwinding, for cooling off, for slowing down. However, it is, of course, full of New Yorkers to whom the winter Florida trip is as mandatory as brushing one's teeth—and once again I have observed how virtually impossible it is for the Manhattanite to do this unwinding.

Many of them have been here for several months now, but their faces are still knotted in frowns, under the deep tans, and they still move quickly and noisily and with a great hullabaloo. They gamble intensely and are impatient with the slower-moving natives, and they talk stocks and merchandise and business incessantly.

The New Yorker resists change to the bitter end. He is carved in a strange and tight-set mold and nobody is going to do any tinkering with him.

thinks is profitable reading. He's studying the Kentucky Derby Winter book.

Under a new ruling it is now possible to sue the British crown. Sue King George? What for?—we're not even mad at him!

WHAT to do about the cold war seems to have us all stumped. But, when it comes to the war on the common cold everyone seems to have a remedy.

Cincinnati Lady Loses 35 Lbs. Doctor Well Pleased

"When I started using Renell Concentrate," writes Mrs. John Reuss, 555 Army Ave., Cincinnati 14, Ohio, "I weighed 210 lbs. Now I weigh 175 lbs. My Doctor wanted me to lose weight and since I have been taking Renell he is well pleased with the results."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Why not try this effective yet inexpensive method of reducing and enjoy the pleasure of feeling younger and more alive. Try Renell and notice the admiring looks you will receive from your friends as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Renell. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Renell—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on the genuine Renell.

Walnut Women Hold Clothing Study Clinic

Women of Walnut township held their first in a series of clothing construction sessions Thursday under the supervision of Genevieve Alley, Pickaway County home demonstration agent.

Assisting Miss Alley were Mrs. Fred Glick and Mrs. Carl D. Bennett who previously attended training sessions at Ohio State university.

The first lesson dealt with current fashion trends and selection of pattern and material.

Miss Alley's tentative schedule for the month is: Friday and Saturday at the New Holland sewing machine clinic; Tuesday — Atlanta sewing machine clinic; Wednesday — Washington township, clothing construction session.

On January 22, Miss Alley and L. A. Best, county agriculture agent, are scheduled to attend the 4-H conference in Chillicothe and the following day they will attend the Older Rural Youth meet in Chillicothe; on the 26th and 27th Miss Alley and Best will be at the Perry township farm institute.

The 28th and 29th will be spent at the Walnut township farm institute. On the afternoon of the 29th, Miss Alley will supervise a clothing construction meeting at Salt Creek township and on the 30th she winds up her month-long tour with Federal Housing Administration families at Atlanta school.

Regular social session of Shining Light Bible class of First Evangelical United Brethren church took place Thursday evening in the community house. Mrs. E. E. McClarren, vice-president, conducted the business session in the absence of Mrs. Ernest May, president.

Plans were discussed for a luncheon and soup sale in the community house next Tuesday. Mrs. J. R. Kirkpatrick was in charge of the devotionals and program. She used as her topic, "Echoes Of Christmas And Plans For The New Year". Readings were presented by Mrs. C. O. Kerns, Mrs. Ralph Long, Mrs. McClarren and Miss Nell McCollister. Two musical numbers were heard; a piano solo by Michael Kirkpatrick and a vocal solo by David Greeno.

At the social hour a dessert course was served by Mrs. E. J. Millions, Mrs. Rockford Brown and Mrs. John Stevenson.

DAR To Meet

Miss Mary Heffner will be hostess for the January meeting of Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, in her home, East Mound street. Miss Winifred Rader, past state chairman of American music, will furnish the program.

Cincinnati Lady Loses 35 Lbs. Doctor Well Pleased

"When I started using Ranel Concentrate," writes Mrs. John Rens, 555 Armory Ave., Cincinnati 14, Ohio, "I weighed 210 lbs. Now I weigh 175 lbs. My Doctor wanted me to lose weight and since I have been taking Ranel he is well pleased with the results."

your vitality increases. Just go to your drugstore and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Ranel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough unsweetened grapefruit juice to fill the bottle and then take two tablepoons a day. That's all there is to it. If you aren't satisfied with the results return the empty bottle to the manufacturer and your money will be refunded. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Ranel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on the genuine Ranel.

Hurricane To Blow In Tonight

Wilmington Crew Has Slight Edge

The two cellar teams in the South Central basketball league meet tonight when the Circleville Tigers play host to the Wilmington Hurricane on the Roll-n-Bowl hardwood.

Both teams have lost all three of their previous league tilts, and each is eyeing the other with visions of winning its first league contest.

Wilmington and Circleville have both been whipped by the tall boys from Hillsboro, but the Hurricane absorbed the lesser walloping by a 46-26 decision, as compared to the 68-43 loss handed the Tigers.

THE TWO teams both have played Greenfield, too, and again the Hurricane fared better, with a 39-33 loss against the 47-32 hand-down the Tigers took.

The Circleville lads have one advantage, however, and that is their average points per game. The Tigers have averaged about five more points per tilt than have the visitors, and a tight defense on the part of the Circleville clan may show a victory.

Circleville's reserves will try for their fourth straight league win tonight when they meet the "Breezes" of Wilmington.

Steve Brudzinski's young charges have won four of six tilts.

Reserve play is slated to start at 7 p. m. with the varsity game due about 8.

Probable lineups for tonight's game follow:

Jackson
Hamilton
Cartwright
Schmidt
Baker

Reserve
Mead
Haines
Brooks

Indians Sell Jack Conway

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16—The Cleveland Indians' sale of Jack Conway is probably the biggest favor the Tribe ever did for the utility infielder.

Conway, sold to the New York Giants yesterday, saw very little action during the 1947 season as he was overshadowed by the masterful shortstop of Lou Boudreau.

The price paid for the former university of Texas shortstop was not disclosed, although it is believed to be in excess of the $10,000 waiver price.

The industries and interests in the state of Michigan are diversified and important. It leads in auto building; other manufacturing interests are numerous. The state ranks high in agriculture, and its commerce includes a large lake traffic.

League Leaders To Get Tests This Weekend

By International News Service
Leadership in both the Ohio Conference and the more closely-knit Mid-American conference comes up for grabs this weekend.

The Mid-American's two leaders, Ohio university and Cincinnati, engage Western Reserve Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Both the Bobcats and the Bearcats have one victory, and this time they'll be playing the club previously defeated by the other. Both leaders will be away from home.

Over in the Ohio conference, the spotlight is on the clash at Bexley tomorrow between Marietta, the nominal leader with two wins and no losses, and Capital's defending champions, who have won four and lost one in league play.

THE LUTHERANS will have the home floor advantage, and it's a decided one in Capital's handbox gym.

Three other teams are tied with Bill Bernlohr's Lutherans for second place in the circuit. All of them will see action Saturday, two of them in important conference tests.

Kent State, which threw the conference race into a shambles by upsetting Akron Wednesday night, is host to Heidelberg. The Student Princes are tougher than their four-and-three conference record indicates.

Muskingum plays at Ohio Wesleyan against a darkhorse Bishop team that has won two out of three family arguments. The Muskies warm up for that one against Ohio Northern tonight.

Galento Clips Masked Marvel

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16—The Masked Marvel had little desire today to be re-matched in a special wrestling-boxing bout with Two-Ton Tony Galento.

Galento, former heavyweight boxer, needed only three minutes last night to knockout the masked matman at the arena. Doctors were called in to revive the Marvel.

In preliminaries, Hans Schanbel pinned Mickey Gold after six minutes for the third and deciding fall in their match. Jim "Goon" Henry bested Pedro Martinez in a wild affair and Fritz Schanbel and Joe Corbett battled to a draw.

The Mid-American's two leaders, Ohio university and Cincinnati, engage Western Reserve Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Both the Bobcats and the Bearcats have one victory, and this time they'll be playing the club previously defeated by the other. Both leaders will be away from home.

Over in the Ohio conference, the spotlight is on the clash at Bexley tomorrow between Marietta, the nominal leader with two wins and no losses, and Capital's defending champions, who have won four and lost one in league play.

THE LUTHERANS will have the home floor advantage, and it's a decided one in Capital's bandbox gym.

Three other teams are tied with Bill Bernlohr's Lutherans for second place in the circuit. All of them will see action Saturday, two of them in important conference tests.

Kent State, which threw the conference race into a shambles by upsetting Akron Wednesday night, is host to Heidelberg. The Student Princes are tougher than their four-and-three conference record indicates.

Muskingum plays at Ohio Wesleyan against a darkhorse Bishop team that has won two out of three family arguments. The Muskies warm up for that one against Ohio Northern tonight.

Galento Clips Masked Marvel

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16—The Masked Marvel had little desire today to be rematched in a special wrestling-boxing bout with Two-Ton Tony Galento.

Galento, former heavyweight boxer, needed only three minutes last night to knockout the masked matman at the arena. Doctors were called in to revive the Marvel.

In preliminaries, Hans Schanbel pinned Mickey Gold after six minutes for the third and deciding fall in their match. Jim "Goon" Henry bested Pedro Martinez in a wild affair and Fritz Schanbel and Joe Corbett battled to a draw.

Leahy Due For Offer From Lions

Observers Doubt Big Man To OK

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—It can be definitely stated today that Frank Leahy, always the handy, all-purpose nominee among rumors and guess-againers, will be asked by the incoming ownership to coach the Detroit (National League) Lions in 1948.

At the same time, it was almost equally definite that Wally Butts of Georgia had been sounded out, indirectly and provisionally, in the same connection and had indicated he wouldn't be interested in leaving the Athens campus at this or any intermediate date.

Also due for a discreet inquiry—provided it hasn't already happened—is Dr. Eddie Anderson, head coach at Iowa. But clearly his man on the preferential list was Leahy, as the weary, bleary magnates of the National Football League assembled for another day of their annual meeting.

AND LEAHY, it evidently will be—until such time as the messiah of South Bend either gives them the nod or the shake-off.

The latter might be reasonably looked for, in view of Leahy's reputed $40,000 income from all sources while holding the Notre Dame job which, by the way, he has contracted to continue holding until deep in the 1950s.

Some of Leahy's revenue, has been coming from the beer, baseball and radio group, which yesterday acquired franchise control from Fred Mandel for a reputed $200,000.

Moreover, Broadcaster Harry Wismer mightn't have been in the investment as heavily as "Spike" Briggs, who supplies Briggs Stadium and those motorcar millions. Likewise Edwin J. Anderson, the brewer; Charles T. Fisher Jr. of the autobody fortune, or perhaps D. Lyle Fife, the new club president.

But it was Wismer who originated the dicker and organized the buying group. And he is definitely Leahy's "man" and-or vice versa.

President Hezleton E. Simmons stated that he had not yet had time to study the report but stated that he had been "quite conscious of the athletic problem existing on the campus."

Akron Students Plan Broadcast

AKRON, Jan. 16—Akron university's "fact-finding" student committee will take to the air waves Tuesday to explain its 39-point program for revamping the school's athletic policy.

The committee received the support of the school's student council yesterday after university officials made their first public statement on the 24-page report.

President Hezleton E. Simmons stated that he had not yet had time to study the report but stated that he had been "quite conscious of the athletic problem existing on the campus."

Young Ex-Marine Is Being Hailed As New 'Tunney'; Faces Big Test

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—Lavern Roach, the young Texan who is being hailed as another Gene Tunney, gets his big chance at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Roach, like Tunney, came out of the Marines to build up an impressive record as a professional. Since his discharge he has won 23 of 23 starts, the last 17 in a row.

Tonight, however, he will be a 13 to 10 underdog in his 10-round bout with classy Tony Janiro, of Youngstown.

This is the toughest fistic assignment the leatherneck has yet faced. Janiro has won 63 of 67 bouts. However, the baby-faced Youngstown boxer is moving up from the welterweight division to the middleweight class and will be outweighed by about four pounds.

ROACH, who hails from Plainview, Tex., has improved so fast that he has gained many admirers and awards. Tunney himself has high praise for Roach.

One national magazine named Lavern the best prospect developed in any branch of the service and another acclaimed him as the best fistic prospect of the past year.

Boys' Club Set For Session

Circleville's Boys Club will hold its second sports instruction class in the high school gym Saturday.

The boys are to report to the gym according to age groups, with those boys in the 6th to 10th grades reporting at 9 a. m., and those from the 1st to the 5th reporting at 1:30 p. m.

All boys reporting Saturday are requested to bring full gym equipment, including shoes, socks, trunks, T-shirt, soap and towel.

ALL IN ONE FREAK DEAL
FOR A SET of freak developments on a freak deal, just contemplate these: 1. At not one of nine tables did anybody reach the only makeable grand slam of 7-Diamonds. 2. At one table, the holder of an 11-card spade suit headed by the A-K-Q-10 never bid it even once. 3. In another case, the holder of a hand worth a game-demand opening two-bid heard all three of the others make bids of three or more before the auction reached him. You would think only dubs could cause such variations. If so, you're wrong. They were the world's greatest players.

South at Table 1 was Morrie Ellis, who outranked all the other masters for an entire season. Hearing the 1-Diamond bid, he was sure that would be kept open, so planned a series of passes in order to lure a double later. When East bid 3-Hearts, he knew that would stay open, so made his second pass. The 5-Diamonds response to the Blackwood was likewise certain not to be passed, so he made his third pass. Then, when North doubled the 7-Hearts, he assuredly could not monkey with that. As it was, his pass earned the only North-South plus score, his great spade suit never having been bid.

At Table 2, the oddest view was presented to Ed Marcus, Boston's greatest player, who heard those three high bids before he could speak on his sound two-bid holding. As it developed, the 7-Spade doubled contract there got beaten two tricks since the winner of the diamond lead returned his lone trump and thus compelled loss of a second diamond. All sorts of things happened at the other seven tables in the game, which was a session of the National Individual Masters championship. This was the most freakish deal that ever bobbed up in all the long history of that blue-ribbon event.

5 Townships In Pickaway Schedule Farmer Institutes

First Meet Booked At Atlanta

2 Speakers Set For Each Parley

Farm institutes in five Pickaway County townships will open the last week in January and the first week of February, L. A. Best, county agriculture agent revealed Friday.

The opening dates for the institutes are Perry township at Atlanta, Jan. 26-27, Jay Skinner, president; Walnut township at Walnut school, Jan. 28-29, Jay Hay, president; Scioto township at Commercial Point, Feb. 2-3, Pearl Zimmer, president; Monroe township at Five Points, Feb. 4-5, Russell Timmons, president; and Tarlton township at Tarlton, Feb. 6-7, O. S. Mowery, president.

"The institutes are made up of farmers and are conducted for the farmers," Best said. "Our purpose is to present information that will benefit the farm owner and to help him economize."

Main topics undertaken during meetings of farm institutes are on agriculture and home economics to aid the farm woman. "In general," the agent said, "we discuss any progressive ideas whether they are social or economic." Best revealed.

Although the institutes, which dot the townships and counties all over Ohio, are under the supervision of the extension service, they are planned and conducted by the presidents and their committees in the institutes in the various communities.

THE EXTENSION service offers a list of 100 speakers who are qualified to do institute work. Best pointed out. To each institute two speakers, a man and woman, are assigned to give ample coverage to subjects which interest both the farmer and his wife.

Of all the 88 Ohio counties, the Pickaway County boasts of a better than average attendance record at its meetings held last year. Best said the total average attendance in this county was 4,847.

Each of the institute presidents has a committee of five or six men and women who are responsible for their institute's yearly program.

Like all other workers, the farmer is attempting to unify and combine his efforts with other farmers to better his standard of living.

NOTE
The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Forest Cemetery Association will be held in the Pickaway County Court House, January 27th, 1948, at 7:30 p. m. This meeting is for the purpose of electing two new trustees and any other business that may properly come before the board.

Rotary Hears Discussion Of Labor Ruling

The Taft-Hartley labor bill is the remedy for the ills caused during the past 12 years by the Wagner act, Ralph E. Weaver, a Columbus legal adviser, told Rotary club members at their noon luncheon Thursday in the Pickaway Arms.

Weaver said the new labor law has done away with unfair practices used by both labor and management by setting up adjustment councils to handle disputes between both parties.

Outstanding advantages of the Taft-Hartley bill, he stated, are that employees now have a voice in the affairs of their jobs and have gained freedom of speech.

Stork Swifter Than Death In Pickaway

If the present birth and death rate continues in Pickaway County we're soon going to find it necessary to extend the county borders.

The number of births in Circleville and Pickaway County almost doubled the death rate recorded in 1947, city and county vital statistics reveal. A total of 606 births were reported, 126 in the county and 480 in the city. Deaths totaled 325 with 164 reported in the county and 161 in the city.

Marriages were also out-doing divorce suits filed in the county courthouse. Even though the number of marriage licenses dropped from 203 in 1946 to 183 last year, the later figure was 73 higher than divorce suits filed. Divorce suits numbered 110 in 1947.

Take time to save time

Have you ever mapped—with pins and thread, or with pencil on paper—the daily "chore route" of your farm or ranch? Have you figured how much back-tracking you do, how many unnecessary extra steps you walk in a day? Have you taken time to save time, and steps, and labor?

A number of agricultural colleges and experiment stations have made practical work studies on farms and ranches, with some astounding results. For example, one dairy farmer (who thought himself pretty efficient) adopted improved machine milking techniques, rearranged his barn to save steps and time in feeding and watering. He saved himself two miles of walking per day, cut his daily chore time by two hours and five minutes. That's 730 miles of walking and 760 hours of work in a year. In making the changes, he spent less than $50.

Indiana tells of farmers who, by planning their work, are raising hogs with one quarter their former hours of labor... There's a report of men making hay in 90 man-minutes per ton; while others using similar equipment—but older, harder ways of working—spend twice that time... There are scores of other examples.

Perhaps you cannot make such great savings in your operations. Maybe you can make more. It's certainly worth looking into, for even little savings are important. Five steps saved a day makes a mile in a year. Five minutes a day gives you three extra days a year.

There's no master plan to fit every farm and ranch, because no two are exactly the same. You have to work out your own plan of improvement. But the time it takes may well be the most profitable time you've ever spent.

A four-step scheme is suggested. First, consider each job or chore separately. Break it down into its parts. Check each part with a watch or tape measure and see if steps or time can be saved. Second, compare your work methods with those of your neighbors. Third, examine and check the details of your work methods. Fourth, develop and apply the new method. In a nutshell, "Plan your work and work your plan."

Time studies and job analysis have helped Swift & Company increase efficiency and make important savings. That's why we so confidently suggest similar studies in your operations. One excellent bulletin on the subject is Number 307, published by Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. It's interesting reading and well worth writing for. Your county agent or state agricultural college can tell of other bulletins on the same subject.

The American Way

In the livestock-meat industry, as in all American business, profit provides the basic incentive for work, enterprise and action. Profit makes the mare go for livestock producers, meat packers and retailers. Too little profit by one section creates an imbalance in the industry. If one part of the livestock-meat industry suffers continued loss, all of us are hurt in the long run.

However, a margin of profit fair to one section of the livestock-meat industry might be quite unfair to another. For instance, we at Swift & Company know perfectly well that both livestock producers and retailers require a higher margin of profit, because of their relatively small volume. On the other hand, nationwide meat packers must build up a tremendous volume of sales to make up for a very small margin of profit per unit—a margin that has been consistently lower than that earned by any other manufacturing industry in America.

Over a period of years, Swift & Company has earned, on the average, less than two cents on each dollar of sales (a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled). Over the same period, the average amount returned to producers for agricultural raw materials, including livestock, wool and hides, has been 75 cents out of each dollar we received. This is not a profit. Out of this 75 cents producers must pay the cost of production.

Whether livestock prices are high or low or whether meat is high-priced or inexpensive—Swift & Company can earn a reasonable profit only by adding together many tiny savings on a large volume of business.

Martha Logan's Recipe for HAM LOAF

(Yield: One 8 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 2 1/4 inch loaf)

3/4 pound ground ham 1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 pounds ground fresh pork 1 cup milk
2 eggs 1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup dry bread crumbs 1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt 2 tablespoons vinegar

Beat eggs. Combine meats, eggs, crumbs, salt, pepper, and milk. Mix thoroughly. Form into loaf in 8 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 2 1/4 inch loaf pan. Combine sugar, mustard, and vinegar. Spread over meat. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour, or until meat has reached an internal temperature of 185° F.

Track Down the Facts

A great family "man" is Fiber Zibethicus, better known to American farmers as the muskrat. He raises his many offspring in marshes, and about streams, lakes and ponds. Muskrat tracks are easily recognized by the drag of his knife-like tail, which shows up well in soft mud.

The muskrat-trapper works hard to make a living out of muskrat skins, and generally his efforts are rewarded. But there is one fact about his business that he tracked down long ago. He knows the price he can get for muskrat skins depends on the popular demand for finished pelts.

In the business of processing livestock into meat for people's use, we at Swift & Company have to keep track of the demand for meat everywhere in the nation. We must know, too, the weights and grades of cuts preferred by housewives. Experience has taught us that the price the producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the meat packers can get for the meat and by-products.

How to Save More Pigs

On the average, 44 out of every 100 pigs farrowed in the U. S. A. die before market time, according to North Dakota State College of Agriculture. Of these, 27 are dead at birth or die during the first ten days because they are weak, chilled, crushed, crippled or infected with disease at birth. Much of this loss can be prevented by proper care, as follows:

Balance the sow's ration. In addition to the mineral mixture, a sow should receive ground alfalfa hay or other green leafy hay up to 20% of the ration. Provide protein supplement of animal source, such as skim milk, or meat or bone meal. To prevent hairless pigs, feed iodine, in stabilized form, in the salt or mineral.

The sow should be given plenty of exercise and should be outside each day. She will get additional exercise if fed some distance from her quarters. Have a comfortable and clean farrowing pen with guard rails and an electric brooder, where possible. Wash the sow's udder with soap and water and remove all mud and dirt before she is put in the farrowing pen. Have a man on hand at farrowing time. A little attention at this time will save many pigs.

Prevent anemia by feeding a mineral containing iron and by supplying clean dirt to the young pigs. Keep young pigs off ground utilized by pigs the preceding year. Start creep feeding pigs a balanced ration at two weeks.

OUR CITY COUSIN

City cousin cannot see why "you" is spelled E-W-E. Neither can we!

Farmer's Choice—When I was in high school, I spent a summer vacation on my grandfather's farm in Indiana. From my city-bred standpoint, his seemed a particularly dull and uneventful life. Rising before dawn and working till after dusk, with little or no opportunity for urban pleasures, he was an object of pity to my adolescent eye. Why didn't he sell his farm and move to town? How did he ever get into this rut in the first place? "Grandpa," I asked one evening at milking time, "Why did you become a farmer, anyway?"

He paused a moment, leaned back on his stool and looked slowly around the barn—at the livestock, at the huge haymow in the east corner, at the farm tools, at the broad beams that supported the roof. What he saw seemed to reassure him, and I shan't forget his answer: "Just lucky, I guess."

How to Save More Pigs

On the average, 44 out of every 100 pigs farrowed in the U. S. A. die before market time, according to North Dakota State College of Agriculture. Of these, 27 are dead at birth or die during the first ten days because they are weak, chilled, crushed, crippled or infected with disease at birth. Much of this loss can be prevented by proper care, as follows:

Balance the sow's ration. In addition to the mineral mixture, a sow should receive ground alfalfa hay or other green leafy hay up to 20% of the ration. Provide protein supplement of animal source, such as skim milk, or meat or bone meal. To prevent hairless pigs, feed iodine, in stabilized form, in the salt or mineral.

The sow should be given plenty of exercise and should be outside each day. She will get additional exercise if fed some distance from her quarters. Have a comfortable and clean farrowing pen with guard rails and an electric brooder, where possible. Wash the sow's udder with soap and water and remove all mud and dirt before she is put in the farrowing pen. Have a man on hand at farrowing time. A little attention at this time will save many pigs.

Prevent anemia by feeding a mineral containing iron and by supplying clean dirt to the young pigs. Keep young pigs off ground utilized by pigs the preceding year. Start creep feeding pigs a balanced ration at two weeks.

OUR CITY COUSIN

Farmer's Choice—When I was in high school, I spent a summer vacation on my grandfather's farm in Indiana. From my city-bred standpoint, his seemed a particularly dull and unrewarding life. Rising before dawn and working till after dusk, with little or no opportunity for urban pleasures, he was an object of pity to my adolescent eye. Why didn't he sell his farm and move to town? How did he ever get into this rut in the first place? "Grandpa," I asked one evening at milking time, "Why did you become a farmer, anyway?"

He paused a moment, leaned back on his stool and looked slowly around the barn—at the livestock, at the huge haystack in the east corner, at the farm tools, at the broad beams that supported the roof. What he saw seemed to reassure him, and I shan't forget his answer: "Just lucky, I guess."
